Do you want to deepen your theological insight, but cannot find the right Masters programme? Then the Taught Masters in General Theology may be the programme for you.

This 'tailor-made' Masters programme is particularly well suited for anyone wishing to spend one year deepening their theological expertise and skill in a number of areas. Under the guidance of an academic mentor, candidates draw upon the expertise and experience of, to construct a Masters programme that addresses their individual theological needs.

WHY MAYNOOTH?

The Pontifical University—the largest English-speaking Catholic theology faculty in Europe—offers a broad palette of postgraduate modules across all theological disciplines in any particular year. Postgraduate modules draw not only on the academic expertise of Maynooth's international Faculty, and integrate those pastoral considerations and spiritual aspects which are essential for a theology that transforms.

CONTENT:

Six modules over the course of the academic year (mid-September to early May) and a minor dissertation in spring and early summer, with submission before August 1.

The Faculty offers specialised modules in all theological disciplines:

- Systematic and Fundamental Theology, Moral Theology and
- Theological Ethics, Biblical Studies, Liturgy, Pastoral Theology, and
- Ecclesiastical History.

DELIVERY:

A combination of afternoons and evenings during the week.

NOTE:

Interesting accommodation and meal plans are on offer.
